About the Book

Once upon a time on a farm in the valley lived a gosling named Lily. Geese born in the valley simply cannot fly. But that won't stop Lily.

While all the other goslings are getting ready for the annual winter wing-clipping festival, Lily has a better idea. What will happen when Lily convinces her best friend, Hugh, to hike with her to the top of the Rocky Mountains with the notion to fly?

It's a tale written in classic children's literature form about two friends, Lily and Hugh, who leave the security of their farmhouse and set off together on an adventure. But soon they encounter danger like they've never seen before. It's going to take courage and perseverance to find a way out of their predicament and make it home before dark.
